Matt Thompson is a seasoned eDiscovery expert with proven expertise in Advanced Analytics, Technology-Assisted Review (TAR), and Managed Review Management. With a strategic approach to AI-driven solutions, he enhances document review efficiency, reduces review volume, and improves defensibility in regulatory and litigation matters.

Matt has extensive experience in managing complex eDiscovery projects across SEC, DOJ, FTC, and CFTC investigations, ensuring compliance with evolving legal standards while optimizing workflows for efficiency and accuracy. He excels in collaborating with legal teams, optimizing search term strategies, and leveraging advanced analytics tools like Brainspace, Relativity, and Reveal AI to drive impactful case outcomes.

With a deep understanding of managed review processes, Matt oversees large-scale review teams, ensuring seamless coordination between legal teams, contract attorneys, and technology-driven review workflows. His expertise in privilege log management, quality control, and defensible TAR methodologies ensures that reviews are conducted accurately, within budget, and in accordance with regulatory expectations. His hands-on experience in managing AI-powered analytics workflows and document review teams positions him as a trusted advisor in high-stakes litigation and regulatory investigations.
